Annual Membership Meeting

The AHR membership meeting will be Wednesday, December 2, 2020 beginning at 7 pm EST. Due to ongoing health precautions, the Board has elected to only offer a virtual option. In the interest of time, please send any questions 48 hours before the meeting to board@haflingerhorse.com. Not only will this help us prepare, but we may need time to search out answers or make a board decision before public announcement. While this is not ideal, the Board appreciates the ongoing support of members during such a difficult year.

The Story of the AHR Youth Leadership Council

In the fall of 2020, a handful of AHR youth passionate about Haflingers and community came together to reconstitute and reinvent the youth program. They included Mason and Brantley Collins of Ohio, Amanda Cederquist of Michigan, Connor Jayne of New York, Elise Wilson of Georgia and Rivkah Valley of New Hampshire. They met online on Zoom and via an invitation only discussion forum that was created on the AHR website.

Every aspect of the previous program was looked at and examined, including membership. The following changes were made:

- Youth membership dues were set at $12 annually
- Eligibility for the D. Lee Wilson Jr. Memorial Scholarship was reduced from a requirement of 2 years to 1 year membership in AHRY for 2021.
- The AHRY Contests were reconstituted. These included Best Photo Content, Best Creative Writing, Best Art.
- The High Point Youth Program was revitalized for 2021.
- Deadlines for all contests, the High Point Youth program and the D.

Lee Wilson Jr. Memorial scholarship were extended to Dec 31, 2021.

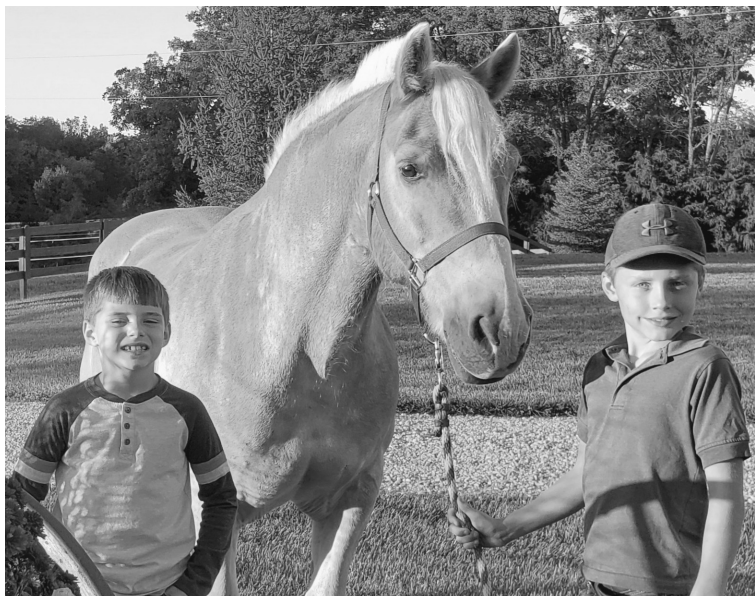

- In addition, a new program for youth was implemented, the Golden Path Youth Program. In Golden Path Youth, youth are recognized for the hours they spend riding, driving or training their Haflinger in any discipline.
- Lastly, the youth put their passion into creating a flyer to showcase their passion for our breed and to invite others to join the newly revitalized AHR Youth Program, the Youth Gazette.

The future of our breed is in good hands.

USDF All-Breeds Award Winners

In a show season restricted and cut short by covid-19, it was harder than ever to meet the criteria for USDF's All-Breeds Awards! At the lower levels, to simply qualify for awards, horses must earn a minimum of eight scores from four different judges, at four different shows, including two scores at 60 percent or higher from the highest test of the level. They must also maintain a median score total over 60 percent.

Congrats to AHR's 2020 winners!

Haflingers and Hounds: My Journey

One of these horses is not like the others...

My Haflinger journey began on a crisp golden day in late September. It was my second time out hunting with Miami Valley Hunt in Dayton, Ohio and I was leasing a hunt horse I had never ridden before, Maxie BEH (Max), a sturdy 15 hand Haflinger. "He'll take care of you," I was assured. As I eyed the cheeky look in Max's eye and the sassy toss of his blond head, I wasn't so sure. With his curved pony ears and short stature, he wasn't the elegant bay horse I had imagined myself riding to hounds. On the bright side, I thought, at least the ground wasn't so far away should the worst happen.

Steeped in pageantry and tradition, foxhunting has fascinated sportsmen for centuries. The roots of North American foxhunting began in 1650 when Robert Brooke imported English foxhounds to Maryland. Passion for the sport soon spread to Virginia and the other colonies. Today there are more than 140 hunts across America keeping the tradition alive and well. In contrast to previous centuries, rarely is the quarry killed in North America; it is "the thrill of the chase" that counts and sometimes today it is coyotes who are chased.

Riding Max was a novel experience for me as we were by the far the shortest in the field. I couldn't help but laugh at Max's jaunty stride as we walked between tall Thoroughbreds and giant draft crosses. The convenience of his short stature became clear as branches whipped over and above our heads. Max led the way through fast-moving streams, past the faint-hearted avoiding jumps, waited (almost patiently) as I extracted thorns from my breeches, and kept me smiling through the whole hunt. He was such a happy golden boy! By the end of the hunt, I was in love with foxhunting and with Max. However, sadly, Max wasn't for sale and he was the only foxhunting Haflinger everyone knew.

Not all horses are suited to hunting, even many experienced trail horses. A good hunt horse must be forward but be patient enough to stand around waiting for hounds to find the scent. They must be exceptionally well-mannered and used to having hounds surround them. Any transgression towards a hound is unforgivable and hounds always have the right-of-way over horses. My quest was on to find a Haflinger that was a foxhunter or could be made into one.

Eventually my search led me to Amy of Cedar Lane, a six-year-old 15 hand Haflinger mare of an unusual bronze color. She was green under saddle and had never been foxhunting, however, I was captivated by the gentle expression in her dark eyes. I had a good feeling about her. I gave her the barn name "Angel."

I sent Angel for training to Emerald Valley Farm, an eventing farm owned by my friend, Marcy, an avid foxhunter. Is she really an "Angel?" asked my friend skeptically. I replied, "Yes." Angel began her training by roading hounds. Roading is used to train young hounds by introducing them to the pack before formal season begins. It is typically a slower pace as hounds, horses and riders are becoming conditioned for the season ahead. Four weeks later, Marcy called and said “Congratulations. You have yourself a foxhunter!”

As I predicted, Angel loved hunting. That season we rode in the Blessing of the Hounds. This ecumenical tradition harks back to early medieval days when hunters believed an intercession from St. Hubert of Liege, the patron saint of hunters, would protect their hounds from disease and keep them safe during the hunt. It marks the start of the formal hunting season and usually draws a lot of spectators because of the pageantry of the ceremony. Each member of the Hunt receives a St. Hubert medallion, depicting St. Hubert, a hound, and a stag with a crucifix between its antlers. In honor of the occasion I had Angel’s long mane braided into a lattice, which drew much comment from the field.

St. Hubert medallion

A few years later, it was a proud day when I received my second St. Hubert medallion on my younger Haflinger, Ancore of Genesis, whom I had bought as a weanling. Over time we have seen more Haflingers out in the field, their golden coats unmistakable in the orange, browns, purples and russet colors of the fall.

Tips on Foxhunting with Your Haflinger

There are levels of foxhunting for everyone who shares a love of the outdoors and of horses: First Flight (jumps everything), Second Flight (selectively jumps or not) to Hill Topping (no jumping but follows the field). As a mountain breed, Haflingers can make good foxhunting horses because they are extremely sure-footed.

1. Teach your horse to stand patiently. For every two minutes of excitement, there is at least 20 minutes of standing around waiting for things to pick up.
2. Your horse needs to be tolerant of other horses pushing into them, branches hitting them as well as the occasional whip crack or gunshot used to call the hounds back.
3. Teaching your horse to turn on the forehand is a must. It is courteous to turn your horse’s haunches away from any horse coming up and behind them.
4. Your horse should have a good stop, including when other horses are galloping past. No member of the field should pass the field master or the Master of Foxhounds.
5. Consider going out roading before the season officially begins. It is a great way to acclimate your horse to the sights and sounds of foxhunting.

Haflingers Help Make a Difference:

NDR Haflingers ready for a day of helping program participants.

NDR Therapeutic Riding

“Little things add up to big things,” says Donna Hyde, executive director of NDR Therapeutic Riding, an adaptive therapeutic riding program in Norco, CA. Little things, like NDR’s Haflinger horses, also change lives.

Working from her small urban ranch about 40 miles east of Los Angeles, Donna Hyde has built a successful and life-changing program over the last decade based on her passion for teaching, a lifetime of horse knowledge, enthusiastic volunteers, excited participants, and great team members. Some of the most important team members are NDR’s Haflinger therapy horses.

“We love our Haflingers because they are an ideal all-around horse,” Hyde said. “They tend to be quiet, with great temperaments, a forgiving attitude, and they seem to enjoy the work,” she added. The compassionate horsewoman adds that Haflingers’ compact but sturdy sizes are helpful to create a secure base for participants who may have balance issues. Different horses with different body styles and stride lengths are useful in the program to help participants with different needs.

NDR Therapeutic Riding serves participants from ages 4 to 95, with the goal of guiding each person to becoming an independent rider always at the forefront. With a wide variety of abilities, influenced by physical and mental health diagnoses including Autism spectrum disorder, ADHD, Seizure disorders, spinal cord injuries, Cerebral palsy, and other physical or cognitive challenges, NDR uses Haflinger horses to help participants improve everything from their balance and fine motor skills to their self-esteem and confidence. A special NDR program focuses on dementia participants, while others are referred by Casa Colina, a world-renowned rehabilitation hospital with particular expertise helping those with traumatic brain injuries.

Many participants ride, often with a volunteer leading the horse and side-walkers, while others interact with the gentle horses from the ground. NDR follows PATH (Professional Association of Therapeutic Horsemanship) certification standards and safety is always paramount, whether the participant is astride or learning to groom, tack, or lead their equine partner.

Serving about 60 participants a week (before Covid-19), supported by a similar number of volunteers who help with everything from ranch chores to participant services, NDR's program includes a changing roster of horses, but always includes Haflingers. Haflingers 'at work' today at NDR include Norman Newsmaker, a 17-year-old gelding (Newsmaker NTF x Golden Opportunity Haflinger Norman Newsmaker with NDR Director Donna Hyde and her son Mark. Mark is NDR's right-hand horseman and a champion rider as well.

LVH) and two mares, Holly and Fiona, of unknown registration status.

"Not every horse, and not every Haflinger, are suited to our work," says Hyde, "but Haflingers are always a good bet. We have some horses donated to NDR which we then evaluate for our program. It's a constant challenge to find the right horses as NDR grows. But Haflingers are always a top choice for our program. There aren't many Haflingers in California, and we enjoy educating people about the breed."

NDR Therapeutic Riding is a registered 501(c)3 non-profit, supported by donations and private payments for horse care and participant scholarships. Their largest fundraisers are an annual barbeque, bequests and corporate donations. To learn more about NDR's program and success stories, please visit www.ndrtherapeuticriding.org.

Meetings & Minutes

AHR Board of Directors Meeting August 12, 2020

All directors present except Chuck Hendershot who was excused with notice.

June and July, 2020 minutes were approved as submitted.

The Board discussed a research fee to compensate office staff when records/parentage research is necessary to aid Haflinger owners in securing proper paperwork. The pedigree committee recommended that the lengthy searches are cumbersome on the office, not individuals seeking papers. After discussion, the Board unanimously passed a non-refundable $100 fee per Haflinger effective September 15, 2020.

The futurity committee is working on adding a full line of hitch-side classes to the 2021 event. Also hard at recruiting participants, the national Showcase committee and the Inspection and Classification committee hope to attract larger numbers for 2021 after the 2020 events were cancelled.

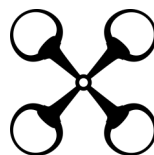

The partnership with Big Dee's and the youth division have been revitalized.

Publications and our digital announcements are on track with positive results. Updates to the website are underway. Applications for trademarking our logo have been submitted along with the edelweiss brand.

As always, the committee seeks input from members with stories and photos.

Those seeking election to the Board of Directors for one of three seats need to submit biographies by August 15, 2020. To date, only one has been received.

The HHPCS requested ongoing sponsorship and was approved unanimously.

AHR Board of Directors Meeting September 9, 2020

All directors present except Chuck Hendershot who was excused post meeting.

August, 2020 minutes were approved as submitted.

The Board reviewed multiple committee reports as plans come together for 2021 events following the cancellations of 2020. A revitalized youth program, futurity, national show, and more are in development.

*Respectfully submitted by,
Missy Shanahan, 1st Vice President*
